RUDRANATH

Rudranath Temple is one of the Panch Kedar temples dedicated to Lord Shiva, located in the Garhwal region of Uttarakhand, India. It is the third temple in the Panch Kedar circuit, after Kedarnath and Tungnath, and is considered one of the most spiritually significant shrines in the Himalayas.

According to Hindu mythology, after the Kurukshetra war, the Pandavas sought forgiveness from Lord Shiva for the sins committed during the war. Shiva, avoiding them, took the form of a bull and disappeared into the Himalayas. His body parts appeared in different places, which became the Panch Kedar temples. At Rudranath, Shiva's face is worshipped in a natural rock formation.
